

Comparative Studies on Chinese and German Architecture

Total Hours: 36

Hours per Week: 2

Weeks: 18

Tongji Credits: 2

Brief Course Description

There is a distinct difference between Contemporary Chinese architecture and German architecture base on the dynamics of development and the representation of form. Through the comparison of the Sino-German architecture, we can better understand the situation of China's contemporary building development with intercultural context. As common reflection to climate change, this course contains series of innovative design topics such as architectural heritage conservation, green building, ecological restoration and landscape engineering in both countries.